SAFETY STATEMENT

The safety of our customers is forefront in our line of business. We take every step possible to ensure the safety of our staff and the public at all times . All the attractions are checked daily by there operating teams to ensure the machine is in working order these teams are assigned checklists by the testing engineer.

All funfair attractions are tested annually by a state appointed engineer to ensure all the machines are in perfect working order for the public. All machinery is also electrically tested annually to ensure employee and public safety.

As Health and Safety plays a major role in our company we are constantly updating our H&S methods and enforcing them throughout the operation this will ensure the employees and public are safe and have a pleasant time.

McFaddens Entertainments acknowledge their duty under the Safety,Health & Welfare act to identify and asses hazards and risks associated with the companies activities.

The aim of the company is to provide a fun and safe form of entertainment and work for its customers and employees this involves the training of all employees in there day to day functions to look out for others aswell as themselves while engaged in company activities.

CORPORATE GAINS

There are a variety of gains to be experienced by having a funfair involved in your business these include a major cheap source of advertising, Increased custom while the funfair is operating, Establishing a new premises or festival or even increasing the standing of an already well established festival.

An example of advertising for your business is the delivery of thousands of flyers through mail boxes the area the fair operates in this can vary from a couple of thousand to as many as one hundred thousand homes depending the venue. the flyers can be printed with your company information on the opposite side. Another example is the additional people coming to the area where your business operates as funfairs can draw large crowds and this inturn can increase your custom or footfall.

Funfairs have operated in events to publicize the events or locations r many years and are a definite advantage t any business, shopping center or festival anywhere

The Rides on the funfair are also available to rent for corporate days and events for any information please dont hesitate to contact use.
